Racial Anxiety

- “Refers to the heightened levels of stress and emotion that we confront when interacting with people of other races. People of color experience concern that they will be the subject of discrimination and hostility. White people, meanwhile, worry that they will be assumed to be racist. Studies have show that interracial interaction can cause physical symptoms of anxiety and that our non-verbal behaviors—making eye contact, using welcoming gestures or a pleasant tone of voice, for example—can be affected as well. When everyone in a conversation is anxious that it will turn negative, it often does. This causes a kind of feedback loop where the fears and anxieties of both white people and people of color are confirmed by their everyday interactions” – The Perception Institute

Historical Context

Jane and Ida: is a Black friend enough??

Save the Children

- In the beginning the foster care system was predominantly white. (early 20th century)
- Early foster care or “save the children” programs focused on relocating the children of poor European immigrants.
- The Hull House and other early community based programming served primarily white immigrant families.

Kinship Care

- African American children has limited access to the Hull House and Addams milk program, however they were excluded formally until the 1950's.
- Black Children who needed relocation/care from the foster care system were neglected by the system. They were often cared for through kinship networks
- 1950's is when Black children were brought into the system.
- This is also when foster care policies became much more punitive.
- Money for "in-home" services decreased.

“Kill the Indian, Save the Man”

Christianize & Civilize

Indian Boarding Schools

- Involuntary removal from families and relocated into boarding schools.
- 100 year era of Boarding Schools for Native American Children.
- Govt Assimilation policy
- Bans on: language, hair, dress, visits from family.
- Many were adopted out to white families through the Native American Adoption project.

“In disproportionately high numbers, Native American and African American children find themselves in the American foster care system. Empirical data establish that these children are removed from their families at greater rates than other races and stay in foster care longer, where they are often abused, neglected, and then severed from their families forever.”-

Cooper, 2013

Most likely to be mistreated

Trauma

- Black children were neglected by the foster care system for over half a century... when they were included policies became more punitive.
- Native American children were kidnapped from their homes and way of life.
- Both groups are the most likely to be mistreated in the system today.
- The Hx of Foster Care in American is a story of Trauma.
- Historical and Generational trauma compound the traumatic load of the children we serve today.
- Let us be informed by this trauma as we look to improve the work we do!

Moving Forward

Supporting all kids requires us to operate from a “know better, do better” lens.

As we increase our understanding we increase our impact.

Being informed about racial bias and the impact of intra-psychic racism will improve our ability to provide holistic care for children.

A trauma informed lens will guide our work.

Broad Timeline

- 1880's-1890's Child welfare system was established
- 1950's Black children provided services
- 1962 Battered Child Syndrome published (helped doctors assess abuse)
- 1963's First Mandatory Reporting State Law (Pennsylvania)
- 1973 CAPTA established Child Abuse Prevention & Treatment Act (Federal funds to support states efforts in child abuse prevention).
- 1980's & 1990's major shifts in services.
- Example: CA – the percentage of children receiving in-home “family maintenance” services fell five percent, while foster care caseloads doubled.

(Child Welfare Information Gateway.)

Mandatory Reporting

- In 1963 150k calls
- In 2009 3.3 million calls = 2348% increase in hotline calls
- Each year approx. 85% of calls do not warrant investigation or are not substantiated.
- Over the decades there have been large increases in reports that are unsubstantiated.
- 1% of the children in America are substantiated victims of abuse

Literacy Moment

- Bias: An inclination or preference either for or against an individual or group that interferes with impartial judgment. Implicit: typically unconscious, unintentional, automatic associations (thoughts/cognitions)
- Discrimination is negative action toward an individual as a result of one's membership in a particular group (behavior/actions)
- Microaggressions: Microaggressions are subtle words, cues, and/or behaviors that insult, invalidate, or exclude traditionally marginalized group members. The long term effect of micro aggressions can have a significant negative effect on one's health. (stereotypes, tropes, benevolent racism etc.)
- Prejudice is a negative attitude and feeling toward an individual based solely on one's membership in a particular social group (feelings/emotions)
- Privilege: Generates Access Systemic favoring, enriching, valuing, validating, and including of certain social identities over others. Individuals cannot "opt out" of systems of privilege; rather these systems are inherent to the society in which we live.
- Racism: A system of oppression involving systematic subordination of members of targeted racial groups by those who have relatively more social power. This subordination occurs at the individual, cultural and institutional levels.

Key Terms

- Disproportionality: The underrepresentation or overrepresentation of a racial or ethnic group compared to its percentage in the total population
- Disparity: The unequal outcomes of one racial or ethnic group as compared to outcomes for another racial/ethnic group

The Tough Reality

The Foster Care System is one of the most segregated and disparate institutions in America

Fast Facts

- Black & Native American families are more likely to be reported
- More likely to have children removed than white families.
- When controlled for SES, Black children and Native American children were not more maltreated than white children DHHS Study, 2010. (30 years of data). (Cooper, 2013)

A look at the Data

- Black children represent approx. 14% of all children in the United States.
- Black children continue to be overrepresented in the foster care system.
- 2008- 31%
- 2014- 26%
- 2018- 23%
- This is a promising trend AND there is still work to do!

CHILDREN IN FOSTER CARE

NYC, 2013

 ALJAZEERA AMERICA

Source: Administration for Children's Services, 2013

New York

- Black children are approx. 15% of all children in NY State
- Black children are approx. 25% of all children in NYC
- 2017 Black children accounted for 57% of the foster care system in NY State
- These numbers inspired legislation to address the disparity.
- NYC requires all agencies to attend anti-bias trainings
- A bill passed at the NY state legislature to promote kinship care through expanding the types of relatives that children can be placed with.
- Another bill passed in NY – The State Central Register Reform Bill it shortens the length of time a parents name is visible in the abuse/neglect database
- As of 2019 there was a 10K drop in the total number of children in the system in NYC.

Additional Considerations

- Federal mandate requires states to consider relative/kinship care prior to outside placement with foster care parents.
- Black children are disproportionately placed outside of kinship care.
- Black children are more likely to be placed with a non-Black family when they are placed with a foster family.
- Typically kinship care receives less financial support (and in some cases fewer services) than a licensed foster care family.

Explanatory Theory

Racial Disproportionality:

Unconscious racism is embedded in our civic institutions; and the foster care system is vulnerable as one such institution controlled and influenced by those in power. Those in power in turn may unwittingly discriminate against people of color, which history demonstrates.”-Charles Lawrence
